What Does Protocol 22 of the Learned Elders of Zion Reveal About the "Power of Gold"?

Sixbert SANGWA • July 26, 2024

The "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" is an important document in the realm of stigmatized knowledge, detailing a comprehensive and long-term plan by a secret group of world elites for global domination and control. The document, frequently linked to Illuminati, elaborates on tactics and strategies to control world events and establish a global governance system under the Antichrist. Among its many chapters, Protocol 22, titled "Power of Gold," stands out for its focus on the control of wealth as a means of global domination. As Christians, it is essential to be aware, vigilant, and discerning. We must expose such clandestine plans, examining them in light of biblical prophecy and current global trends.

Control of Wealth and Financial Systems

The protocol 22 begins with a bold assertion: "IN OUR HANDS IS THE GREATEST POWER OF OUR DAY - GOLD: IN TWO DAYS WE CAN PROCURE FROM OUR STOREHOUSES ANY QUANTITY WE MAY PLEASE."
This statement highlights the immense control over financial resources that this secret group claims to possess. Historically, the control of gold and wealth has always been a significant source of power. According to some sources, the Illuminati would have obtained a substantial portion of their wealth from King Solomon's reserves of gold, which were stored under the temple. This ancient treasure is said to have provided the Illuminati with the financial means to exert influence over global events and economies throughout history. The control of wealth, especially gold, is highlighted as the greatest power. This idea is evident in historical and modern times, where control over financial resources has always been a significant source of influence. The Rothschild banking family, one of the Illuminati's bloodline families, represents the concept of financial dynasties exerting control over global economies. Today, central banks like the Federal Reserve and institutions such as the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and other illuminati-controlled financial institutions wield immense power over national and international economic policies. The 2008 financial crisis demonstrated how decisions made by a few financial institutions could impact the global economy, aligning with the protocol's claim of centralized financial power.

Justification of Actions Through Wealth and Power

The protocol claims: "Surely we shall not fail with such wealth to prove that all that evil which for so many centuries we have had to commit has served at the end of ends the cause of true well-being - the bringing of everything into order?"
This suggests that the accumulation and use of wealth, even through unethical means, is justified by the perceived end goal of establishing order and well-being. Historically, empires and nations have justified their conquests and exploitation of resources and people by claiming to bring civilization or order. In modern times, corporations often justify harmful practices by emphasizing their contributions to economic growth and stability. This echoes the protocol's assertion that immense wealth can be used to validate actions, no matter how nefarious.

Redefining Freedom and Rights

The protocol continues: "We shall make plain therewith that freedom does not consist in dissipation and in the right of unbridled license... that true freedom consists in the inviolability of the person who honorably and strictly observes all the laws of life in common."
This perspective redefines freedom as strict adherence to laws set by the ruling authority, rather than individual liberty. Today, this can be seen in the increasing surveillance and regulation by governments and corporations, justified in the name of security and order. Policies that restrict personal freedoms, such as mass data collection and monitoring, are often defended as necessary for the greater good. This contrasts with the biblical view of true freedom in Christ: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free" (Galatians 5:1).

Establishment of a Single, Supreme Authority

Protocol 22 speaks of an all-powerful authority: "One authority will be glorious because it will be all-powerful, will rule and guide, and not muddle along after leaders and orators shrieking themselves hoarse with senseless words."
The vision of a single, supreme authority mirrors the biblical prophecy of a future world leader, the Antichrist, who will wield unprecedented power. Revelation 13:7 describes this leader: "And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations." This aligns with current trends towards globalization and centralization of power, where multinational corporations and supranational organizations increasingly influence global policies and governance.

Control Over Public Perception and Ideologies

The protocol further asserts: "The aureole of this authority will inspire a mystical bowing of the knee before it and a reverent fear before it of all the peoples."
This suggests the use of propaganda and psychological manipulation to control public perception and instill reverence for the ruling authority. Today, media and technology play significant roles in shaping public opinion and controlling narratives. Often, media outlets and journalists align their ideas and criticisms with the ruling authority to captivate the masses. Governments and corporations use mass media, social media, and other forms of communication to influence and manage public perception. This aligns with the protocol's description of instilling a "mystical bowing of the knee" before the authority.

Elimination of Oppositional Voices

The protocol mentions: "True force makes no terms with any right, not even with that of God: none dare come near to it so as to take so much as a span from it away."
This element highlights the suppression of opposition and dissenting voices. Historically, totalitarian regimes have used force to silence critics and maintain control. In contemporary society, we see similar tactics where governments and powerful entities use legal, economic, and technological means to suppress opposition. Leaders who fail to align with global trends often face difficulties; for example, those who denied or flexibly implemented Covid-19 measures faced significant backlash and obstacles. The persecution of whistleblowers, censorship of dissenting opinions on social media, and the suppression of political dissidents are examples of this trend.

Conclusion

Protocol 22 of the "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" emphasizes the control of wealth, redefined freedoms, centralized power, and suppression of opposition, resonating with both historical and current global trends. The document's depiction of financial dominance and manipulation, justification of unethical actions through wealth, enforced compliance with authority, and the use of propaganda to control public perception reflects the strategies employed by various powerful entities throughout history and today. As Christians, it is crucial to approach such documents with discernment, testing everything against the Word of God, and remaining vigilant and grounded in biblical truths.
As we are in the end-time, waiting for the Church rapture, the world is putting together efforts to inaugurate their ruler, the Antichrist. Ephesians 6:11 encourages us to "Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." As we navigate these complex times, let us seek wisdom and guidance from the Holy Spirit, always aligning our understanding with God's truth rather than worldly allures. By doing so, believers can recognize and resist the deceptions that seek to undermine true freedom and righteousness in Christ.
